The 30-Day Home Fat-Loss Kickstart

A simple plan for busy people: 3 short workouts a week, no equipment, and 5 food habits that actually move the scale.

How this plan works

Most people quit because the plan is too big. This one is built to be small enough to start today and steady enough to show results in 30 days.

Each week	What you do	Time
3 workouts	Workout A, B and C below, on non-consecutive days (e.g. Mon, Wed, Fri)	15–25 min
Daily walk	Build up to 7,000–9,000 steps a day	20–40 min
Food habits	Add one new habit each week (page 4)	0 extra min
Check-in	Weigh in and measure your waist once a week, same day, same time	2 min

> Realistic expectations: a healthy pace is roughly 0.5–1% of your body weight per week. Your waist measurement and how your clothes fit matter as much as the scale.

Progression

- Week 1: 2 rounds of each workout. Learn the moves.
- Week 2: 3 rounds.
- Week 3: 3 rounds, add 2 reps or 5 seconds to every exercise.
- Week 4: 4 rounds, or use the harder variation.

Before you start

Warm up for 3 minutes every time: marching on the spot, arm circles, 10 slow bodyweight squats, 10 hip hinges. If you have an injury, a heart condition, are pregnant or have any medical condition, check with your doctor first.

The 3 workouts

Do every exercise in order, rest 30–45 seconds between exercises and 60–90 seconds between rounds.

Workout A · Legs and core

Exercise	Reps / time	Easier	Harder
Bodyweight squat	12	Squat to a chair	Pause 2 s at the bottom
Reverse lunge	8 each leg	Hold a wall	Slow 3 s lowering
Glute bridge	15	Smaller range	Single leg
Plank	20–40 s	On knees	Shoulder taps

Workout B · Upper body and core

Exercise	Reps / time	Easier	Harder
Push-up	8–12	Hands on a table or wall	Feet raised
Chair dip	8–12	Knees bent, feet close	Legs straight
Superman hold	20 s	Arms only	Add small pulses
Dead bug	8 each side	Move legs only	Slow 3 s reach

Workout C · Full-body burner (quiet, no jumping)

Exercise	Time	Easier	Harder
Squat to calf raise	40 s	Slower pace	Faster pace
Step-back mountain climber	30 s	Hands on a chair	Faster pace
Standing knee-to-elbow	40 s	Smaller range	Add a twist
Inchworm walkout	30 s	Bend knees	Add a push-up

5 food habits (one per week)

No strict diet. Add one habit at a time and keep the earlier ones.

Week	Habit	Why it works
1	Protein at every meal: eggs, chicken, fish, yoghurt, lentils, beans	Keeps you full and protects muscle while you lose fat
2	Half the plate vegetables or salad at lunch and dinner	More food volume, fewer calories
3	Swap sugary drinks for water, tea or coffee without sugar	One of the easiest ways to remove hundreds of calories a day
4	Plan your snacks: fruit, nuts (a small handful), yoghurt	Stops random late-night snacking
+	Sleep 7–8 hours	Poor sleep increases hunger and cravings

Simple plate guide

- ½ plate: vegetables or salad
- ¼ plate: protein, about the size of your palm
- ¼ plate: carbs such as rice, bread, potatoes or pasta, about the size of your fist
- A thumb of fats: olive oil, butter, nuts

> You do not have to give up your favourite foods. Fat loss comes from your average over the week, not from one meal. Keep the foods you love, in portions that fit.

Protein ideas on a budget

Eggs · canned tuna or sardines · lentils and chickpeas · chicken thighs · plain yoghurt · cottage cheese · milk

Your 30-day tracker

Write A, B or C on workout days and tick the walk. Cross off each day you hit your habits.

What's next?

This kickstart is the same for everyone. It is a great start, but your body, schedule and equipment are not the same as everyone else's.

Stuck after week 2?

- Check your portions for one week: most stalls come from snacks and drinks you don't count.
- Add 1,500 steps a day.
- Make the workouts harder (page 2), not longer.
- Protect your sleep.
